-- The MAILING DATE of this communication appears on the cover sheet with the correspondence address --

Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

3. Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ito et al (US Patent No. 4926152) in view of JP 8-22924. Ito et al teach an ignition coil for an engine having an insulating cover surrounding the external part of the core. See the abstract and also col. 4, lines 29-32. However, Ito et al is silent regarding the location of the switching device for the primary circuit. JP 8-22924 teaches an ignition coil for an engine wherein the switch is located within the housing of the ignition coil. It is considered to be obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to have included the switching device within the housing of Ito et al as taught by JP 8-22924, since this would have provided for a more compact arrangement. The location of the low and high voltage connector are considered to be an obvious matter of design choice, as is whether the cover is one integral piece or two separate covers.

4. Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Matthiesen et al (US Patent No. 5497756) in view of JP 8-22924. Matthiesen et al teach an ignition coil for an engine having an insulating cover surrounding the external part of the core. See the abstract. However, Matthiesen et al is silent regarding the location of the switching device for the primary circuit. JP 8-22924 teaches an ignition coil for an engine wherein the switch is located within the housing of the ignition coil. It is considered to be obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to have included the switching device within the housing of Matthiesen et al as taught by JP 8-22924, since this would have provided for a more compact arrangement. The location of the low and high voltage connector are considered to be an obvious matter of design choice, as is whether the cover is one integral piece or two separate covers.

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 5-7 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
